Ashes to Ashes

This past Sunday we celebrated All Saints' Day. Each year, in a moving service, we take the time to honor the faithful disciples who have died during the past year and reflect on the treasures they passed along to us before their death. We light candles in their memory, attempting to keep their flame for as long as we can, and dedicate ourselves to passing their wisdom and love along to those who will follow us. It is a ritual of remembrance and centering that helps to connect us to the great eternal cloud of witnesses.

Over the past several months, members of First Presbyterian Church have been considering another way that we can remember and honor our saints in faith. The group has been exploring the possibility of installing a prayer garden and columbarium and memorial wall in the current courtyard space. A columbarium is a structure in which urns holding the cremated remains of loved ones can be housed. Many churches, both historically and contemporaneously, have had a columbarium or a graveyard on their property providing a peaceful resting place for departed saints of the church. These spaces often become sacred areas where people can gather to remember a departed loved one or simply spend time in prayer and meditation. It is the hope that this project will add such a holy space to First Presbyterian Church.

Also, this past Sunday our Scholar in Residence, Dr. Dan Deffenbaugh led an adult Forum titled "Ashes to Ashes: Christian Cremation." In this lesson, which is now available on the church's YouTube page (<https://youtu.be/gnqkThOuDHs>) Dr. Deffenbaugh explores Christian theology related to death, cremation, and eternal life. Dan always does an excellent job exploring a topic and viewing the class is highly recommended.

In addition to the installation of the 160-niche columbarium and memorial wall, this project, which is separate from the capital campaign, would involve adding access to the courtyard from the hallway which connects the education wing to the sanctuary building, enclosing the arches of the exterior breezeway with stained glass, and installing some outdoor seating in the area.

Those who can be inurned in the columbarium include church members and former members, pastors and staff of First Presbyterian Church, and the children, grandchildren, parents, spouses and partners (current and prior) of all of those folks. The same eligibility will apply to the memorial wall, which serves to honor those who are interred elsewhere but wish to be remembered for their relationship to the church.

Of course, there are far more details than what can be covered in this brief article. That is why a second forum has been scheduled for this Sunday, November 10 at 9:15 a.m. in the Fellowship

Hall. This forum will be hosted by Dr. John Pershing who has chaired the columbarium committee and will provide great detail as to the scope and specifics of the project. Of course, if you have questions, you can always contact the church office but many of your questions will be answered during this session.

May we continue to honor and treasure the saints in faith who came before us.

Peace and all good,

Damen Jensen-Heitmann

Company and Food Needed for Lonely HC Students

Every year, we know that some students stay at Hastings College for Winter break. HC's Dr. Amanda Solem was fortunate to receive an Innovation Grant to help make sure no one is lonely for the whole break and to foster fellowship between HC and the First Presbyterian Church. Often, Student Engagement has worked with 10-15 students to support them during the break, but we would like to have room for up to 30 if needed. We know that our students are often missing home cooking and feeling part of a community. Part of the funding will go towards a main dish and tableware for potluck meals on campus with students, and we hope you will join us! We realize many of you will probably want to spend time with your own family on the holidays, so we've chosen holiday-adjacent dates:

12/26 – 12-2 p.m. the day after Christmas at Daugherty Center

12/31 – 2-4 p.m. New Year's Eve afternoon for an appetizer potluck at Daugherty Center.

For the Christmas-adjacent meal, we'd love to have salads, sides, and desserts. For the New Year's potluck, appetizers are welcome.
